

Membership Benefits of Asian Gallium Oxide Alliance

1. President Unit

- (1) Awarded the President's Plaque by the Alliance, recognizing the organization's industry standing and enhancing its credibility and brand reputation.
- (2) Granted participation and voting rights in major Alliance decisions, enabling involvement in key issues such as industry development and strategic planning and the opportunity to help shape the future of the industry.
- (3) Based on capabilities and contributions, members may be promoted to Council Member or Vice President member status, further enhancing industry standing and voice within the industry.
- (4) Priority participation in forums, exhibitions, and international exchange activities organized by the Alliance, helping enhance the organization's industry visibility and influence.
- (5) The organization's representative will be invited to attend the Alliance's annual forums as a VIP and will receive four complimentary registration passes.
- (6) Discounted participation fees for various events organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (7) Discounted booth fees (50% off for one booth per year) for exhibitions organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (8) Complimentary promotional opportunities (up to three times per year) at Alliance-organized events, subject to event arrangements*.
- (9) Priority feature coverage for major developments, new product breakthroughs, and corporate news on the Alliance's official website, WeChat Official Account, video channel, and other media platforms, with priority access to publish compliant corporate advertisements.
- (10) Up to five video placements per year on the Alliance's official website (each running for no less than 10 days), and 15 headline placements per year on the Alliance's official WeChat Official Account.

- (11) Comprehensive support for the development of group and national standards, covering planning consultation, drafting guidance, and review implementation, helping enhance enterprises' core competitiveness and industry influence.
- (12) Priority participation in industry projects, technology collaboration, and joint research initiatives, with support in applying for research programs, industrial projects, and special funding opportunities to seize new development opportunities.
- (13) Exclusive resource matchmaking, providing precise connections with industry experts, universities and research institutes, and upstream and downstream enterprises, along with technical consultation and business opportunity facilitation.
- (14) Access to top industry talent matching, university talent pipelines, and customized talent development services, empowering enterprises to strengthen their talent development systems.
- (15) Access to the Alliance's exclusive WeChat member group, connecting with key researchers, sharing cutting-edge information, and fostering exchanges that drive business development.
- (16) Priority participation in Alliance-organized industry research, reports, and white papers, with shared access to technical materials, research outputs, intellectual property, talent, and equipment resources to promote collaborative development and technology transfer.

2. Vice-President Unit

- (1) Awarded the Vice President's Plaque by the Alliance, recognizing the organization's industry standing and enhancing its credibility and brand reputation.
- (2) Granted participation and voting rights in major Alliance decisions, enabling involvement in key issues such as industry development and strategic planning and the opportunity to help shape the future of the industry.
- (3) Based on capabilities and contributions, members may be promoted to Council Member or Vice President member status, further enhancing industry standing and voice within the industry.
- (4) Priority participation in forums, exhibitions, and international exchange activities organized by the Alliance, helping enhance the organization's industry visibility and influence.
- (5) The organization's representative will be invited to attend the Alliance's annual forums as a VIP and will receive three complimentary registration passes.
- (6) Discounted participation fees for various events organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (7) Discounted booth fees (30% off for one booth per year) for exhibitions organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (8) Complimentary promotional opportunities (up to three times per year) at Alliance-organized events, subject to event arrangements*.
- (9) Priority feature coverage for major developments, new product breakthroughs, and corporate news on the Alliance's official website, WeChat Official Account, video channel, and other media platforms, with priority access to publish compliant corporate advertisements.
- (10) Up to four video placements per year on the Alliance's official website (each running for no less than 10 days), and 15 headline placements per year on the Alliance's official WeChat Official Account.
- (11) Comprehensive support for the development of group and national standards, covering planning consultation, drafting guidance, and review implementation, helping enhance enterprises' core competitiveness and industry influence.

- (12) Priority participation in industry projects, technology collaboration, and joint research initiatives, with support in applying for research programs, industrial projects, and special funding opportunities to seize new development opportunities.
- (13) Exclusive resource matchmaking, providing precise connections with industry experts, universities and research institutes, and upstream and downstream enterprises, along with technical consultation and business opportunity facilitation.
- (14) Access to top industry talent matching, university talent pipelines, and customized talent development services, empowering enterprises to strengthen their talent development systems.
- (15) Access to the Alliance's exclusive WeChat member group, connecting with key researchers, sharing cutting-edge information, and fostering exchanges that drive business development.
- (16) Priority participation in Alliance-organized industry research, reports, and white papers, with shared access to technical materials, research outputs, intellectual property, talent, and equipment resources to promote collaborative development and technology transfer.

3. Council Member Unit

- (1) Awarded the Council Member's Plaque by the Alliance, recognizing the organization's industry standing and enhancing its credibility and brand reputation.
- (2) Granted participation and voting rights in major Alliance decisions, enabling involvement in key issues such as industry development and strategic planning and the opportunity to help shape the future of the industry.
- (3) Based on capabilities and contributions, members may be promoted to Council Member or Vice President member status, further enhancing industry standing and voice within the industry.
- (4) Priority participation in forums, exhibitions, and international exchange activities organized by the Alliance, helping enhance the organization's industry visibility and influence.
- (5) The organization's representative will be invited to attend the Alliance's annual forums as a VIP and will receive two complimentary registration passes.
- (6) Discounted participation fees for various events organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (7) Discounted booth fees (20% off for one booth per year) for exhibitions organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (8) Complimentary promotional opportunities (up to two times per year) at Alliance-organized events, subject to event arrangements*.
- (9) Priority feature coverage for major developments, new product breakthroughs, and corporate news on the Alliance's official website, WeChat Official Account, video channel, and other media platforms, with priority access to publish compliant corporate advertisements.
- (10) Up to three video placements per year on the Alliance's official website (each running for no less than 10 days), and 10 headline placements per year on the Alliance's official WeChat Official Account.
- (11) Comprehensive support for the development of group and national standards, covering planning consultation, drafting guidance, and review implementation, helping enhance enterprises' core competitiveness and industry influence.

- (12) Priority participation in industry projects, technology collaboration, and joint research initiatives, with support in applying for research programs, industrial projects, and special funding opportunities to seize new development opportunities.
- (13) Exclusive resource matchmaking, providing precise connections with industry experts, universities and research institutes, and upstream and downstream enterprises, along with technical consultation and business opportunity facilitation.
- (14) Access to top industry talent matching, university talent pipelines, and customized talent development services, empowering enterprises to strengthen their talent development systems.
- (15) Access to the Alliance's exclusive WeChat member group, connecting with key researchers, sharing cutting-edge information, and fostering exchanges that drive business development.
- (16) Priority participation in Alliance-organized industry research, reports, and white papers, with shared access to technical materials, research outputs, intellectual property, talent, and equipment resources to promote collaborative development and technology transfer.

4. Regular Member units

- (1) Awarded the Council Member's Plaque by the Alliance, recognizing the organization's industry standing and enhancing its credibility and brand reputation.
- (2) Granted participation and voting rights in major Alliance decisions, enabling involvement in key issues such as industry development and strategic planning and the opportunity to help shape the future of the industry.
- (3) Based on capabilities and contributions, members may be promoted to Council Member or Vice President member status, further enhancing industry standing and voice within the industry.
- (4) Priority participation in forums, exhibitions, and international exchange activities organized by the Alliance, helping enhance the organization's industry visibility and influence.
- (5) The organization's representative will be invited to attend the Alliance's annual forums as a VIP and will receive one complimentary registration pass.
- (6) Discounted participation fees for various events organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (7) Discounted booth fees (10% off for one booth per year) for exhibitions organized by the Alliance, subject to event arrangements.
- (8) Complimentary promotional opportunities (up to one time per year) at Alliance-organized events, subject to event arrangements*.
- (9) Priority feature coverage for major developments, new product breakthroughs, and corporate news on the Alliance's official website, WeChat Official Account, video channel, and other media platforms, with priority access to publish compliant corporate advertisements.
- (10) Up to two video placements per year on the Alliance's official website (each running for no less than 10 days), and 5 headline placements per year on the Alliance's official WeChat Official Account.
- (11) Comprehensive support for the development of group and national standards, covering planning consultation, drafting guidance, and review implementation, helping enhance enterprises' core competitiveness and industry influence.

- (12) Priority participation in industry projects, technology collaboration, and joint research initiatives, with support in applying for research programs, industrial projects, and special funding opportunities to seize new development opportunities.
- (13) Exclusive resource matchmaking, providing precise connections with industry experts, universities and research institutes, and upstream and downstream enterprises, along with technical consultation and business opportunity facilitation.
- (14) Access to top industry talent matching, university talent pipelines, and customized talent development services, empowering enterprises to strengthen their talent development systems.
- (15) Access to the Alliance's exclusive WeChat member group, connecting with key researchers, sharing cutting-edge information, and fostering exchanges that drive business development.
- (16) Priority participation in Alliance-organized industry research, reports, and white papers, with shared access to technical materials, research outputs, intellectual property, talent, and equipment resources to promote collaborative development and technology transfer.

* To ensure the effect of the activity, the free promotion quota for each activity is limited, which will be arranged according to the order of registration.